Market Commentary

Generali Fixed Income Long Duration recorded performance of -0.78% in March 2025. In March 2025, the 5-year Indonesian government bond yield fell from 6.749% to 6.762%, while the 10-year yield decreased from 7.039% to 6.964%. The Federal Reserve (FED) maintained its benchmark interest rate at 4.25%-4.5% in March 2025 to control inflation and reduce economic uncertainty. The Indonesian bond markets experienced notable fluctuations this month, influenced by economic policies, geopolitical events, and investor sentiment. The Rupiah faced depreciation pressures due to persistent capital outflows, driven by global economic uncertainties of the US trade war and thus required central bank intervention (additional purchase of Rp.150 trillion from secondary bond market) aimed to maintain stability and ensure sufficient market liquidity. Regardless, Indonesia's prudent fiscal policies and proactive interventions by Bank Indonesia remained supportive to the economy. The BI-rate was held at 5.75% to maintain the low inflation target, maintain exchange rate stability, and stimulate economic growth amidst a high uncertainty environment.
