Market Commentary

Generali Equity posted a performance of +6.21% in September 2025. The JCI recorded a performance of +2.94% in September 2025, rising from the 7800 level to the 8000 level. Overall, the domestic stock market performed strongly in September, driven by both domestic and international factors. Firstly, Bank Indonesia's surprise 25 bps rate cut to 4.75% and subsequent FED rate cut had boosted market liquidity and investor sentiment. Secondly, despite the cabinet reshuffling, markets remained stable as the changes were seen to have strengthened the economic team. Lastly, the government began trialing a digital social assistance program, which could potentially boost future consumer spending. Although banking sector underperformed due to the reshuffle, sectors such as basic materials (+19.29%), consumer goods (+12.35%), and industrials (+25.84%) emerged as top performers. Despite pressures from political changes and geopolitical tensions, Indonesia's economic fundamentals remained intact and supportive in September, with a low inflation rate (2.65%), a positive Manufacturing PMI (50.4), and sufficient foreign reserves (USD 148.7 billion). Nonetheless, the following large-cap stocks drove the stock market movement this month (e.g., BRMS +78.72%, BBKA -5.57%, BBRI -3.70%, RAJA +20.53%, INET +22.50%, ANTM +3.95%, BUMI +36.70%, CDIA +13.18%, PTRO +BMRI -6.98%, WIFI +4.46%).

Market Commentary

Generali Fixed Income recorded a performance of +0.61% in September 2025. In September 2025, the 5-year Indonesian government bond yield fell from 5.697% to 5.511%, while the 10-year yield remained relatively stable, moving slightly from 6.322% to 6.341%. Indonesia's bond market stayed bullish, with the Indonesia Composite Bond Index (ICBI) rising 0.61% month-on-month, supported by Bank Indonesia's (BI) 25 bps rate cut to 4.75%, aimed at boosting economic growth and liquidity while maintaining inflation and currency stability. Additional liquidity from maturing bonds (Rp 77 trillion in September and Rp 107 trillion in October), along with the Fed's matching rate cut, further boosted emerging market sentiment. These factors enhanced the appeal of Indonesian bonds. With BI's continued easing expected, short-to-medium duration bonds remained attractive, supported by stable inflation and resilient domestic demand despite global and domestic uncertainties.

(Benchmark before Feb 2023: Average 1 Month Deposit of Bank Mandiri, Deutsche Bank and ANZ)

Market Commentary

Generali Money Market recorded performance of +0.22% in September 2025. The Bank Indonesia Board of Governors decided on 16-17th September 2025 to lower the BI-Rate by 25 bps to 4.75%, while also lowering the Deposit Facility (DF) rate by 50 bps to 3.75% and the Lending Facility (LF) rate by 25 bps to 5.50%. The decision is consistent with joint efforts to stimulate economic growth by maintaining low inflation, projected in 2025 and 2026 within the 2.5±1% target corridor, while maintaining rupiah exchange rate stability in line with economic fundamentals. Moving forward, Bank Indonesia will continue monitoring economic growth and inflation to consider further room for BI-Rate reductions based on rupiah exchange rate stability. Therefore, Bank Indonesia will continue strengthening monetary liquidity expansion and accommodative macroprudential policy to lower interest rates, boost liquidity and revive lending/financing in pursuit of higher economic growth.
