Market Commentary

DPLK Generali Fixed Income Bravo recorded a performance of -1.44% in June 2026. The Indonesian bond market in June 2026 began to show signs of stabilization following the heavy pressures of the previous month, as Bank Indonesia's decision to hold the BI-Rate at 5.25% successfully capped the spike in the 10-year SBN yield within the 6.6–6.8% range. Despite the rupiah continuing to trade with high volatility, easing escalations in the Middle East conflict gradually cooled global inflation fears and restored investor confidence in domestic assets. Furthermore, the government-backed bond stabilization fund proved highly effective in dampening volatility and establishing a firm floor for bond prices. Reflecting this improved sentiment, foreign capital outflows have started to reverse into modest net inflows, while Bank Indonesia sustained its secondary market SBN purchases, bringing the year-to-date accumulation to Rp148.50 trillion by the end of June 2026. The synchronization between the bond and equity markets re-emerged, with both asset classes posting moderate rebounds as external pressures softened throughout the month.
