Market Commentary

DPLK Generali Equity Bravo recorded a performance of 9.44% in July 2026. The Indonesian stock market staged a sharp rebound in July 2026, with the JCI closing the month at 6,236.13, up 10.51% month-on-month, its strongest gain of 2026 and a marked reversal from June's rout, though the index remained down roughly 27–28% year-to-date. The rally was driven by easing external pressure, including the Fed and Bank Indonesia both holding rates steady and a temporary cooling of Middle East tensions, alongside strong Q1 earnings from blue-chip banks. Foreign investors turned net buyers for the first time in months, posting a Rp1.62 trillion inflow, even as the cumulative year-to-date foreign sell position stayed deep at around Rp95 trillion. The financial sector, July's biggest laggard turned leader, spearheaded the rebound with BBKA drawing heavy foreign buying, while materials and healthcare also posted broad gains, leaving nearly every sector in the green. The rupiah stayed under pressure, weakening to around Rp18,074–18,077 per US dollar. With valuations still below historical averages, analysts see the JCI consolidating between 6,000–6,450 through August before pushing toward a year-end target near 7,000, contingent on reform progress ahead of MSCI's November review.
